Description

This solid silver panther pin brooch features a sculptural feline form set upon a polished black onyx panel. The sleek body of the panther is decorated with marcasite stones, while emerald accents form the eyes, creating a striking contrast against the deep tone of the onyx.

Part of the Windsor Collection, the design draws inspiration from jewellery associated with the Duchess of Windsor and the dramatic animal motifs popular in early twentieth century decorative arts. The combination of the bold panther figure and the rich onyx base creates a brooch with strong visual presence and refined character.

This brooch is handcrafted in sterling silver using traditional jewellery-making techniques. The onyx panel, marcasite stones and emerald eyes are carefully set within the design, and the piece is hand finished and polished to enhance the sculptural detailing and refined surface.
